With respect to the power and duty of Congress to protect the rights of property in the Territories against the nejust and unconstitutional action of its own creature there are no two opinions in our ranks. We are all cordially agreed in favor of this broad view. No Whig or American ever disputed it. No man of the Opposition does dispute it. Whether or not the right of alary property in one of these rights is a question for the Sapreme Court to decide. And from its decision there can be no lawful appeal. Here again we are all agreed. STARKON, March 5, 1859.

GENTLEMEN: I have had the honor to receive over invitation to participate in the meeting to be held in Richmond, on the 7th inst., for the purpose of the Name pretacting all avery in Kansac; as to Territories yet to come, it was an open question. Our correspondent any Mr. M. asserted this "distinctly." Subsequently, when Mr. Bell repeated this latter statement literally, and asked Mr. Magoffin if he correctly understood him now to hold that the subject of non-intervention was "an open question so far as the Territories yet to come were concerned," Mr. M. replied: "No; it was noticed as to all future time." He thus retreated precipitately to his first position in favor of unqualified non-intervention.

The gentleman to whom we have referred talls us that when Mr. Magoffin executed this headlong manonure, under the kindling eye of his antagonists, he looked as if he were desing from literal any indicated and, moreover, before he ventures out again, we advise him to make perfectly sure that Joshua F. Bell doese't dim the coast at any point.

There is one thing beside the exceeding vigor and skill with which Mr. Bell preased his antagonist in the debtet which this distracteful desired the propose of Virginia are loyal to the principal of 1860. It will show whether the people of Virginia are loyal to the principal of 1860. It will show whether the people of Virginia are layed to the principal of 1860. It will show whether the people of Virginia are loyal to the principal of 1860. It will show whether the people of Virginia are loyal to the principal of 1860. Johns F. Bell doses't dim the coast at any point.

There is one thing beside the exceeding vigor and skill with which Mr. Bell present in the debate which this diagraceful doubling-and-turning very clearly shows; which is, that Mr. Magonia has the seans and the grace to be heartly ashamed of his ewa position. The assertion of non-latervention whilst admitting the power and duty of intervention in evidently not exactly the sort of intervention is evidently not exactly the sort of intervention whilst admitting the power and duty of intervention is evidently not exactly the sort of intervention is evidently not exactly the sort of the first of the principles of civil liberty; to an extend the intervention of the step to the principles of their fathers and properly appreciate the same of properly appreciate the same of properly appreciate the properly appreciate the same of properly appreciate the same of the same of properly appreciate the properly appreciate the same and properly appreciate the same of the properly appreciate the properly appreciate the same and properly appreciate the same and properly appreciate the properly app ground. The poor man is distracted. Out of vague dread of tembling into an absurdity more ridiculous still be clings blindly to the excessive absurdity of men-intervention coupled with the acknowledged duty of intervention. He is forced by his fears to trust, are numbered. To quote the language of a trust, are numbered. To quote the language of a trust, are numbered.

would like to change it it we need to accomplish the feat. He is sick of his position; but he hasn't thrown it np, though he is protching tarribly. This is enough for us and a good deal too much for him.

Now that we have in so significant a shape Mr. Magoffin's own testimony to the folly and worthlease mass of his position, we shall call with higher confidence than ever on the Democratic masses of the South, the Democracy has adopted as it cardinal measures the equisition of Cula, per for the courter that is obvious to the most appeared to the cardinal suspices of Democracy the country has been deal too much for him.

It is obvious to the most appeared to the most appeared to the folly and worthlease the fatal auspices of Democracy the country has been deal too much for him.

It is obvious to the most appeared to the folly and worthlease the fatal auspices of Democracy the country has been deal too much for the Union to the most appeared to the folly and worthlease the folly and t se beld and strenuously advocated by the Louisville Democrat, says:

This doctrine of the Democrat is the doctrine of Douglas and Forney and Hickman and other traitors to the Democratic party, and we suppose has few advocates in Kentucky except Cassas M. Clay, George Blakely, Chancellor Nicholas, Judge Robertva, the Rev. Educat J. Breckinsidge, and selber members of the old Emancipation and Know Nothing parties.

Now, this last remark is an extremely random one. A portion of it may be trae; a part we know is false. We are enabled to state on the highest authority that so far as it relates to Chancellor Nicholas at least it is entirely incorrect.

Court to say what are the rights of property. Up to this point there is and can be no difference of opinion in the Opposition. Even our excellent friend and contemporary of the Maywith Engle goes cheerfully than far. To stop short off it is to set at defance not only the constitution and the settled maximos of government but the whole practice of Congress from the beginning of the nation down to the present moment. And this is really all there is of the doctrine of intervention as insisted on by as. Absolutely all. We simply affirm the power and duty of Congress to protect when necessary to rights of property which the Supramae Court declares to exist in the Territories. Nothing more.

There are men in Kestucky who deny all this; but, so far as we know and balleve, not one of the meaning the country of the great speech of the right of alave property in the Territories, and after the Supreme Court the question of the right of alave property in the Territories, and after the Supreme Court the question of the right of alave property in the Territories, and after the Supreme Court of the question of the right of alave property in the Territories, and after the Supreme Court of the question of the right of alave property in the Territories, and after the Supreme Court of the question of the right, to ansert that Congress shall not perform or may exceed by the suprementation of the right of alave property in the Territories, and after the Supreme Court of the right, to ansert that Congress shall not perform or may exceed by the suprementation of the right, to ansert that Congress shall not perform or may exceed by the suprementation of the right of alave proposing what the appointed arbiter has thus solamuly consigned to be a screde onstitutional right of the South.

It now remains only for the people of Kentacky, The party in this State is already ovarthrown. We appeak advisedly. The shadow of a Waterloo defeat of these of the country of the state of the south will not endare even in the Democracy, Aff. Marchall wil nary effect on the people. Ilis competitor and his competitor's friends writhed visibly but impotently under its crushing power. Mr. Harlan is nuquesgant, uesther did ha respond on the $30,600,000

bill and the war making power. He gave this as his position on the protection issue: That he was opposed to a law protecting slavery in Kansas; as to Territories as to come, it was an open question. This he stated distinctly. He then would up with a few wall-tidd humorous anecdotes.

Alr. Hell, in his rejoinder, restated, word for word, what Mr. M. had said in his reply about protection, and usked him if he now said that it was an open question so far as the Territories yet to come were concerned? Mr. M. replied—"No; it was sattled as to all future time." Mr. B. here illustrated Mr. M. is positions by the anecdote of the Dutchman listening to the katy-dida: One would sing katy-did and another katy-didn't, and, after listening all night, he swere be couldn't tell whether Katy did or she didn't. So he has heard Mr. M. express himself several times on this question, but it was first Katy did and then she didn't.

The speech of Mr. B. has had a powerful effect here. Soms Democrats have declared for him; the lokawarm of our party are made enthusiastic, and all of as feel that we can win lust his contest; and, even though we fail, our fall with such a leader wannot be devoid of glory.

ELIZABETHTOWN, May 12, 1859. To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

GENTLEMEN: James Harlan and A. J. James, the candidatas for Attorney-General, addressed a large and attentive assembly of the people here to day. Mr. Harlan et off in a very able and argumentative speech of one and a half hours, in which be charged beavily on the administration and the logues Democratic party; he showed their divided position in relation to squatter-sovereignty and non-intervention by Congress. He defined in a clear and able manner the true position of the Opposition party, as opposed to equatter-soverignty and in favor of Congressional intervention in the Territo-To the Editors of the Louisville Journal; was somewhat divided on this and other small issues, but hoped and taleved they would all be together at the election. I consider Mr. James the best speaker on the imposition ticket; but he is no match for Harlan, who I regard as one of the ablest men in the State. If he could be heard by all the voters of the State, the Opposition would succeed by a very large majority. I must close with assuring you that Mr. Harlan's friends and foss were pleased with his effort to day. HARDIN.
